The Lullaby Trust

To reduce the risk of sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS) the safest place for a baby to sleep is in their own clear, flat, separate sleep space, such as a cot or Moses basket. However, we know that many parents find themselves co-sleeping whether they mean to or not. Wherever you're planning for your baby to sleep we recommend making your bed a safer place for baby. Our advice on co-sleeping with your baby will tell you how.

NICE guidance on safe sleeping

If parents/carers choose to co sleep then NICE Guidance (2021) advocates that professionals should discuss with parent/carers' safer practices for bed sharing, including:

Bed sharing

1.3.13 Discuss with parents safer practices for bed sharing, including:

- making sure the baby sleeps on a firm, flat mattress, lying face up (rather than face down or on their side)
- not sleeping on a sofa or chair with the baby
- not having pillows or duvets near the baby
- not having other children or pets in the bed when sharing a bed with a baby.

1.3.14 Strongly advise parents not to share a bed with their baby if their baby was low birth weight or if either parent:

- has had 2 or more units of alcohol
- smokes
- has taken medicine that causes drowsiness
- has used recreational drugs.

National Child Mortality Database

This new report 2022 draws on data from the National Child Mortality Database (NCMD) to investigate sudden, unexpected and unexplained deaths in both infants and children and young people, and to draw out learning and recommendations for service providers and policymakers.

Who's in charge? Safe sleep campaign Think Plan Share

“Who's in Charge?” was created back in 2019 by Royal College of Paediatrics and Child Health (RCPCH) Birmingham Health Care.

This was in response to sadly several baby and infant deaths where social factors are present. Some have included alcohol which had been consumed by the responsible adult and is considered to be a contributing factor in terms of a baby being put down to sleep in what is considered an unsafe sleeping place. Across NEL in the past 3 years we are aware that in some cases this too has been a factor.
